ROYAL COMMISSION FOR BANK INQUIRY NAMED AT OTTAWA

Lord Macmillan Will Be Chairman—Review of Entire Financial System to Be Undertaken—Advisability of Establishment of Central Bank Is One of Chief Questions

OTTAWA, July 31 (CP).—Personnel of the Royal Banking Commission, to inquire into operations of the Bank Act in Canada, was announced, late today, by Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, at the conclusion of a Cabinet Council session.

Lord Macmillan, noted British jurist, has been appointed chairman, and other members of the commission are: Sir Charles Addis, English banker and economist; Sir Thomas White, war-time minister of finance; Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of Alberta; and Beaudry Leman, general manager and director of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, Montreal.

A sixth member of the commission may be appointed at a later date, but the appointment has not yet been decided upon. It is understood Lord Macmillan and Sir Charles Addis will arrive in Ottawa next week at the latest, and the Canadian members will at once join them here for organization.

WIDEST LATITUDE
The entire Canadian banking, currency and credit system will come under review, and it is anticipated the inquiries will be conducted in many cities throughout Canada, giving the widest possible latitude to the investigation.

On the report of this commission the parliamentary committee will base its deliberations at the next session when the delayed revision of the Canadian Bank Act will be carried out.

MARKET BOARD PLAN PRESSED

British Columbia Advocates Federal Legislation at Next Session

British Columbia pressed for creation of Federal legislation along the lines of the British Agricultural Marketing Act, either to set up a Dominion farm products board or to permit such action by the several provinces, under authority of Federal law, Premier Tolmie announced yesterday on return from Regina, where he attended an agricultural conference called by Hon. Robert Weir, of Ottawa.

The Premier laid data before the Federal Minister of Agriculture, pointing to the need of orderly marketing of farm products, including fruit, milk, meat, wheat and eggs in Canadian provinces, with the British Columbia interest centring in those products for which it must find an outlet outside its own domain.

A produce-marketing board, under Provincial regulation, had already been set up in Ontario, where it acts in an advisory capacity to industry, and is suggested now in Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

SECURE HEARING

Thorough discussion was given at the conference to the project, and the British Columbia representations were heard at length by Mr. Weir, who gave sympathetic consideration to the arguments advanced. The Ontario plan, which is advisory rather than one which was explained in detail, together with results accruing since its inception.

The formal plea made on behalf of this Province was that the Federal Government act at the next session to bring in a Canadian marketing law, under which the Provinces themselves could set up marketing boards, if this is not contemplated under Federal authority directly.

EXHIBIT PRAISED

Looking fit and well after his trip, the Premier expressed pleasure both at the success of the exhibition and at the success of the exhibition.

Mahatma and Followers Arrested After Announcing New Campaign

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 1 (AP).—Civil authorities, forestalling the intention of the Mahatma Gandhi to lead a march of followers inaugurating a new disobedience movement, early today arrested the aged Indian leader, his wife, his secretary and thirty-two followers from his Ashram, or college of devotees, at Sabarmati.

The arrests were made at 1:40 a.m. under the Emergency Power Act at the bungalow of the Mahatma's host, Seth Ranchodras, a wealthy mill owner.

Announcement that Gandhi planned a new disobedience campaign in which individual acts would replace the mass campaign heretofore practised was made yesterday.

The magistrate announced his decision and handed down written reasons for judgment. Copies were supplied to interested counsel, including M. B. O'Dell, who appeared for Mr. Elliott, and Mr. A. G. Desbriay, who represented the Provincial Government at the preliminary hearing on July 13.

TEN KILLED IN HOTEL BOMBING

Fifty Others Injured When Explosion Wrecks Hotel in Czechoslovakia

BRUNN, Czechoslovakia, July 31 (AP).—A bomb explosion in the four-story Hotel Europa killed about ten persons and injured fifty others here today.

Scores of guests were buried in the wreckage when the blast tore away the entire front of the building, and authorities had difficulty in determining the exact number of victims.

After a hurried investigation, police said the bomb may have been set off by a man who wished to kill himself and his wife and child. Several of the injured were said to be critically hurt.

ROCKED BY BLAST

The entire city was rocked by the explosion, and flames shot up 200 feet into the air. The disaster occurred at 7:45 a.m., before most of the guests had left the hotel for the day.

The first floor of the hotel was demolished, and windows of other buildings in the vicinity were shattered by the blast, which threw the population into a panic.

The rescue work was done by police, firemen and soldiers, who also were called on to maintain order among the frightened populace.

LOAN WILL AID EMPIRE TRADE

Canada to Float Big Issue on London Market—First in Years

LONDON, July 31 (CP).—Two features of the new Canadian loan of $15,000,000, the first of which opened and close on the London market Wednesday, were described as being of great significance by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, tonight.

In the first place the issue, first on the London market for the Dominion in a score of years, indicates Canada and the United Kingdom have taken an immediate step in the direction of development of inter-empire trade following the recent Empire declaration, said Mr. Ferguson.

WILL INCREASE CONFIDENCE

In the second place the loan is a great imperial gesture, which he thought would increase confidence all over the Empire in the success of the new Empire movement.

Progress and stability of the Empire was assured today that it had ever been, Mr. Ferguson concluded.

The announcement of the loan got a warm reception from the British press. It is a 4 per cent loan, to be put on a short-term basis, having the option of paying in instalments up to the end of October, though there is no discount for cash.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP).—Fifty policemen, armed with machine guns and tear gas, and a number of National Guardsmen were held at bay for almost an hour today by a lone gunman who barricaded himself in a hotel room after shooting and killing Policeman Ernest Purkay, twenty-six.

The man was registered at the hotel as Grumpy Moore, and following his capture, was rushed to police headquarters through crowds that had gathered in the street outside the hotel.

SHOT THROUGH DOOR

Policeman Purkay, who was appointed to the force two years ago today, was sent to the hotel following a call to headquarters that Moore was causing a disturbance. As he knocked on the door of the man's room, Moore fired through the door, the bullet striking Purkay in the heart.

PREPARING TO REPULSE ENEMY

TOKYO, Aug. 1 (AP).—The Japanese navy's grand manoeuvre covering a three-month period beginning June 1 entered the second preliminary phase today, when the combined fleet began movements preparatory to assuming defensive formations to repulse the attack of an hypothetical enemy from the southeast.

The manoeuvres proper, in which practically the entire navy will be engaged, are scheduled to begin about August 15 under the personal supervision of the Emperor. The attacking and defending fleets will clash in a major battle some hundreds of miles southeast of Tokyo.

Naval officers stressed that the enemy manoeuvres were purely hypothetical. Neither America nor any other country was named.

Export Buying in Lumber Makes Slow But Firm Advance

Volume Gain in Coast Purchases by Great Britain, Australia and China for First Six Months This Year—Prices Are Stiffening

EVIDENCE of some return of purchasing power on three continents, as seen in volume gains in lumber orders from the Pacific Northwest, is an outstanding feature of the official figures for six months' lumber exports, between January and June, inclusive, this year. The figures were released yesterday by Provincial officials, and include a steady advance in British Columbia water-borne exports, though this, admittedly, is offset by decreased domestic sales.

Total volume of British Columbia destinations this year, and of this only 1,200,000 feet to United States points. In peak years, before tariff restrictions against Canadian lumber, the United States market counted at between 600,000,000 feet and 1,000,000,000 feet for Canadian shipments. Also in good times, the Canadian domestic market took about 800,000,000 feet. The American market is non-existent for British Columbia lumber now, and the Canadian domestic market is but a part of its former capacity, though recovering slightly in recent months so far as can be ascertained.

INCREASED VOLUME
Australia increased purchases from the Northwest from 57,388,000 f.b.m. to 69,402,000, giving British Columbia 64,759,000 f.b.m. of these orders. The United Kingdom increased purchases from 74,870,000 f.b.m. to 107,280,000, giving British Columbia 78,824,000 of this business. China advanced her buy from 80,699,000 f.b.m. to 203,484,000, British Columbia taking 57,006,000 of this business, up from 17,842,000 f.b.m. at this time last year. British Columbia sold 200,000,000 f.b.m. on the three continents, as against 117,000,000 f.b.m. between January and June last year.

On the other hand, compared with 71,998,000 f.b.m. entered by British Columbia in the water-borne carriage to North American points in the first half of last year, only 8,139,000 f.b.m. went to similar

IN FAVOR OF CENTRAL BANK

Liberal Leader Says Bad Government Worst of Country's Evils Now

SHELLBROOK, Sask., July 31 (CP).—The banking system of Canada is a good one, but it has "not functioned so as to satisfy all the needs of the Canadian people. A central bank which "is to supervise currency and credit is necessary and will be established if the Liberal party attains power. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, this afternoon, the position of his party at a picnic meeting in Silver Grove, near here, this evening. "We have had drought, grasshoppers and lots of other bad things, but worst of all, a bad government," he told his audience, with a smile. He charged the Government with strangling trade by high tariffs. "Are we going to vote for a government which did that?" he asked. "I do not think that many people who voted for Mr. Bennett and his government last time will do it next time. I am not afraid of that." But a new party had sprung up, and it was making promises which were much greater than those of Mr. Bennett at the last election. They were going to establish a new heaven and earth.

secretary in another. The destination of the prisoners were not immediately determined.

ISSUES STATEMENT

Gandhi issued a statement directed both to the British people and to the members of the Indian National Congress. "If you want peace in India," said the section addressed to the British, "rule by ordinance is not the way. Congress way is the only way. I say this as a friend of the British people. Some of you may regard me as an enemy, but I prophesy that the mist will one day roll away, and you will admit my claim."

COMMITTED ON THEFT CHARGE

Amazing Story of Confidence Swindle Told in Vancouver Police Court

VANCOUVER, July 31 (CP).—Leslie Barton, alias William Smith, no fixed address, was committed to trial in police court here today on three charges of obtaining money by false pretences from James and Sarah Campbell, of British Columbia. Barton was charged with theft of $7,000 from the Ontario couple in an alleged stock swindle, conspiracy to defraud and conspiracy to steal.

Defence was reserved. According to evidence given by Campbell today, he met Barton under the name of "Major" Burbank, supposed New York market speculator, who had made considerable amount of money for a Judge Baker in Winnipeg several months previously. Campbell testified Barton told him that if this man, who was now in Vancouver, could be located, they could make some money in the stock market.

MAJOR IS LOCATED
Barton later took Mr. and Mrs. Campbell for a trip around the city by car. As they passed the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Barton stopped the car and popping into a man apparently leaving the hospital, said: "There's the man I've been looking for."

The stranger was introduced as Major Burbank. On his suggestion, according to the evidence, the four met the next day in the Regent Hotel, where Burbank handed Barton a paper and an order to buy "corn" stock. Barton returned later with a supposed cheque for $500. Burbank then handed Barton two cheques for $25,000 each and told him to invest the money. The next day Barton turned over to Burbank a cheque for $100,000.

Barton left to cash the cheque, but returned saying that the broker's clerk had taken it back because the two $25,000 cheques were no good. Burbank said they would have to raise $50,000 immediately to get delivery of the money allegedly made in the stock deal. According to Campbell, he put up $7,000 in gold, and Barton returned with two $25,000 cheques which were turned into cash, while Barton supposedly contributed $18,000 and Burbank the rest.

MADE A MISTAKE
The money, in separate envelopes, was given to Barton, who was told by Burbank to get the cheque for $190,000 and buy some more stock. Barton returned and said he had made a mistake and that the money was lost, whereupon Burbank handed him $30 and told him to go to Portland, Ore., and get some more money.

Two second class railway tickets were purchased by Burbank, who gave them to the Campbells and told them to meet him at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, Montreal, after he had flown to New York to see his family and obtain more money.

The trip east proved fruitless for the Ontario couple when Burbank failed to put in an appearance. Several days later Barton was arrested when he attempted to change a $1,000 bill at a bank here. He had an additional $287 in his possession when taken into custody. His alleged confederate has not been located by police.

CHINESE FLAG HOISTED AGAIN

Fliers Over All Territory South of Great Wall—Japanese Withdraw

PEIPING, China, July 31 (AP).—Japanese troops having evacuated the recent war zone in North China under terms of the Tangku truce, the flag of the Nanking Government flew today over all of the area south of the Great Wall. Peace preservation corps have been formed by Chinese authorities, which established headquarters for this work today at Tangshan, a city on the railroad about half-way between Tientsin and the eastern end of the Great Wall.

FORCES DISBANDED

Scattered Chinese forces in the area have been disbanded in accordance with the Sino-Japanese accord of Tangku. The separatist movement among Chinese residents in the Miyun district, north of Peking, has collapsed with the retirement of the Japanese military forces.

Peiping and Nanking officials are greatly encouraged over the situation. General Feng Yu-hsiang, the independent Chinese war lord who has been organizing an anti-Japanese campaign in Chahar, remained as a disturbing factor for Nationalist authorities. The Nanking officials seemed to be uncertain whether to conciliate him or crush him with force.

RELIEVES SITUATION

The situation has been relieved somewhat by evacuation of Tientsin, on the Chahar frontier, by Feng's troops, who had aroused the ire of Manchukuo and Japanese military chiefs.

VICTORIA BONDS ARE IN DEMAND

More Than $17,000 Already Subscribed Before Counter Sale Begins

Although the sale of city bonds over the treasury department counter has not officially got under way, the subscription has been picked up by investors, it was announced yesterday. So far applications have been received for $17,000, from not only Victorians, but from out-of-town investors, who have taken advantage of picking up the bonds at 5.5 per cent interest in anticipation of an improvement on the bond market, which may send the over-the-counter bonds up to a premium.

Actual sale of the bonds will not get under way until the $227,000 funding issue debentures are printed. However, in the meantime, applications are being received by the city for $17,000, from not only Victorians, but from out-of-town investors, who have taken advantage of picking up the bonds at 5.5 per cent interest in anticipation of an improvement on the bond market, which may send the over-the-counter bonds up to a premium.

TWO MEN RELEASED BY KIDNAPPERS AFTER BEING HELD FOR DAYS

11:30 p.m., Saturday, July 22.

INTERMEDIARY HELD

ALBANY, N.Y., July 31 (AP).—Manney Stewi, who contacted the kidnapers, was held for ransom on Sunday of John J. O'Connell, Jr., on payment of $40,000 ransom, was taken into custody tonight by Detective Dolan and James O'Connell, of the New York City under-cover squad.

He had been missing since Sunday afternoon, and even his family did not know of his whereabouts until it was learned tonight he was being held for questioning in connection with the part he played as go-between.

The story of his abduction by several men, one of whom struck him on the head, he was lighting from his automobile, and being imprisoned in an apartment, shackled, handcuffed and blindfolded, with only sandwiches to eat, was related today by John J. O'Connell, Jr., in an interview copyrighted by The Albany Times-Union.

DID NOT SEE CAPTORS

The nephew of Albany's powerful Democratic leader, released early Sunday in New York City after being held for ransom since July 7, said he had no opportunity to see any of his captors and did not believe he would be able to identify any of them.

"My feet were tied together and I was handcuffed," young O'Connell said in the interview. "Several times I was required to sign messages sent to my family. The bandage was lifted slightly, just enough for me to see the edges of the paper where I placed my name."

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP).—Taking the profits out of kidnapping by refusal to meet ransom demands was urged today by Detective Stephen, New York City criminologist, as an effective strategy for eradicating the menace.

One question to be given special consideration by the commission is the advisability of setting up a central bank in Canada. The commission will make recommendations for revising or supplementing Dominion legislation relating to banking and currency and the adoption of such measures as might seem desirable to promote the revival of trade; to facilitate inter-Imperial and international co-operation for the purpose of raising commodity prices, increasing employment, and to stabilize industry and finance.

OUTSTANDING MEN

The appointees from Great Britain are outstanding men in their respective fields. Lord Macmillan, eminent British jurist, is well known as the chairman of the Macmillan committee appointed by the British Government in 1929 to inquire into finance and industry in the United Kingdom.

Previous to this appointment he was generally recognized as the leader of the parliamentary bar in England. He has acted as counsel for Canadian litigants in many important cases before the Privy Council.

Sir Charles Stewart Addis is an internationally known figure in the banking world. For some years he has been a director of the Bank of England. He also served as vice-chairman of the Bank for International Settlements. He is a director of a number of important shipping and banking concerns.

OF WIDE KNOWLEDGE
Hon. J. E. Brownlee has been associated with the Government of Alberta for the past twelve years, first in the capacity of Attorney-General and since 1925 as Premier of that province. He was general counsel for United Grain Growers, Limited, and United Farmers of Alberta. He has a wide knowledge of conditions in Western Canada and takes an active interest in all questions relating to the welfare of that part of the country.

Beaudry Leman is general manager and director of Banque Canadienne Nationale, Montreal. Besides his extensive business interests, Mr. Leman has served in many important capacities in public affairs. He was a member of the national advisory committee on the St. Lawrence Waterways, and of the Canadian Farm Loan Board.

The display of the Vancouver Harbor Board, a replica of that port at night, with moving model steamers and airplanes, made a great appeal to Prairie people and was much admired, the Premier said. Upward price trends in Canadian commodities, including livestock and grain, has created a much better feeling throughout Canada, and this was in evidence at the inter-provincial gathering, Premier Tominé declared.

Prairie temperatures, ranging between 55 and 105 degrees in twenty-four hours, came as a shock to Coast delegates.

OF B.C. INTEREST

A large number of subjects were considered on the conference agenda, with results that are being tabulated by Provincial officials. Domestic grading of butter, and many other subjects, were of interest to British Columbia. Premier Tominé declined to discuss politics, beyond saying an announcement as to his election plans would be made in due course. He has as his house guests Hon. Alward Goutbout and Madame Goutbout.

Hon. Robert Weir will come to the Coast later, and is expected to confer then with Provincial officials here, in extension of the Regina discussions on marketing and other subjects, it was stated.

COMING DOWN THE IRRRAWADDY—Bangles jingle on all arms, anklets, babies coo or cry, fat women rattle in bamboo scabbards, coins ring and sing as they're tossed on stones, a bubble of tongues bubble and echo around the food stalls as men and women demand rice, nuts, boiled pork or decaying fish. We're downbound on a mighty flooded river.

More than 500 brown bodies lie sprawled at all angles out on this round deck. A crying baby can get no food from its gaunt, hollow-checked mother. She coughs frequently and sobs occasionally. Pretty soon other mothers put on a charity drive and the babe is handed around from mother to mother until he's so full he falls off to sleep. Talk about a bread line!

Another mother occasionally takes hefty swigs from a stone flask, picks up her little gaffer, age two, and squirts some of the liquid into his mouth like a robin feeding her young.

A monk comes aboard with a Buddha and plous travelers spread mats before it and say their "Now I lay me down to sleep." The prayers never stop, day and night, for bad spirits are at large, the river floods and the rains moan. At every stop we pick up huge baskets of "mupi." To pronounce that you cough twice then sing a Mammy song, and to smell it you smoo. Appalling and overpowering; but they eat it.

As I roamed among the deckers today an old boy with a belly goad beard came up seeking money in a big brass pot. I dropped in a coin, whereupon he made a loud yowling speech and banged a series of gongs. A young Burman, distinctive and important, because he wore glasses, explained.

"He has driven all devil spirits away; your voyage will be fraught with no dangers." "Great," I said. "Why don't you cut loose from the bogey men?"

"Black magic is for children and the ignorant," he boomed. That sort of pinned a label on me. Every time I came near that bird afterwards he uncorked some ponderous platitudes. "We view this grave menace with mounting alarm." "The situation is fraught with danger and difficulty." "We are giving this matter every attention." "Our economic structure crumbles before our startled eyes."

WESTERN Canada's latest... the Anderson cart. Like the Bennett buggies, which have become more common in the West than any other vehicle, the Anderson cart is a combination of the horse-drawn and motor-driven vehicles. took an awful liking. I was sure this fellow had lived; peeps a chap up somehow."

EYE FOR AN EYE

All the way down river we found tiny shrines stuck in trees, mud banks, huts, pagodas or rafts to shoo away spirits. Ghosts were supposed to come with the rains. They were everywhere, listening, spying, plotting, killing. And a Burmese ghost, in case you're interested, never picks on one man to kill or terrify. Always his whole family, in fact this whole mid-Asiatic valley works on a family unit system. If I, Gordon Sinclair, owe Greg Clark ten dollars my brother Murray is just as much in debt to Greg as I am. If I kill a man or steal his watch or call him a dirty name my boys are just as guilty as me under Burmese tribal law.

And up here in the high hills of silence the law is a life for a life. If a Shan kills a Kachin the Shan's sons instantly and automatically go out and slaughter some other Kachin.

No hemming and hawing about it. Off with his head. What difference does it make if the man was right or wrong. He was killed; enough. Go get me a Shan skull and bring it here.

Quite recently Captain J. H. Green, of the Burma Rifles took a three-week march into the Shan hills to warn a certain man to stop killing his wife. The fourth wife.

"He had killed three," the captain explained. Since he had bought and paid for them he and all the village felt it had a perfect right to kill them.

"Of course some of the folks thought he was recklessly extravagant, but certainly within his rights. When I got there he was just marring a fourth woman. He thought the government had rather silly ideas, but it's altogether likely he has since killed the fourth wife."

This Captain Green probably knows more about North Burma than any other living man. Here's his sum-up in a recent Rangoon speech, as follows:

"Don't forget to ask permission before sitting down, or using the entrance. Don't enter private rooms or touch anything; the village that you don't understand. Leave your gun in the porch. Receive everything that is offered to you with both hands. Show no sign of a superiority complex, and never laugh at any of their beliefs or customs or they will close up like a book. Accept anything offered in return. An officer once refused a chief's presents on principle. The next day he received a bag of bullets as a declaration of war."

"Do not take offence where no offence is meant. At times it is certainly rather trying, especially when you are at the centre of a village surrounded by savages. You see mothers pointing you out to their children and saying 'look, that's a Kachin.' Others say 'look at the hair on his arm, like an animal.' 'He must be frightfully old.' 'His eyes are like a cat's.' 'Doesn't he smell?' In the villages you must expect no privacy. You will go to sleep with a crowd of old women and village idiots looking on, and wake up with another lot in attendance. Above all smile. That is the greatest tip of all."

And now we're back in Mandalay, Tippy and I. Sorry we couldn't take the monsoon caught us up and blotted out the country. For five weary, feverish months these people will

WORLD POLICE FORCE FORMED

Officers Chosen for International Crime-Suppression Organization

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP).—The newly organized International World Police—formed to expedite apprehension of world criminals—Saturday selected James S. Bolan, New York police commissioner, as its first president.

The election of officers followed recommendation of a committee composed of four American and four European police officials. All officers were chosen by acclamation. John J. O'Connell, deputy chief inspector of New York police, was named secretary, and A. V. Jenkins, commissioner of police, Portland, Ore., treasurer.

The organization was formed to set up a clearing house of international criminal information. It is likely that two headquarters will be maintained—one in Washington and the other either in Geneva or Vienna.

Sooke Lake System Has Profit of $36,628—Goldstream Loss Shows Decrease

The city's annual report was issued yesterday, giving in detail information already issued earlier in the year as each department completed its resume of the work accomplished in 1932.

Of particular interest in the report just published, however, are the figures in connection with the waterworks system. A profit of $36,628 is shown for the Sooke Lake water system. This is an increase of $7,662 over the 1931 period, despite the number of indigent cases last year.

While no profit was shown on the Goldstream waterworks operations, it is gratifying to note that the operating loss was decreased last year, as compared with 1931. The loss for 1932 amounted to $5,308, as compared with $6,497 in 1931. Deducting the loss on Goldstream from the profit on Sooke, the city is left with a net profit on its two waterworks systems of $23,324.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

REACHING AFTER SLAMS

An expert player is able not only to compute from the bidding the precise honor strength of his partner's hand, but in many instances, through the use of plastic valuation, to make specific cards. From his partner's responses to well-chosen bids, he can fill in certain gaps in his own hand. As a result, he often discovers a hand which, judged purely on the basis of honor strength and distribution, seems good for no more than game, is really good for a slam.

One of the leading bridge players of New York is Mr. Richard L. Frey, who has finished high up in numerous tournaments and is a winner of more than one championship. The accuracy of his inferences may be judged by his bidding of the hand below. Mr. Frey was seated North.

1—Obviously a sound opening bid.
2—South has no other bid available. It would be very dangerous to raise hearts with only two cards in the suit, even though both are honors.

3—Mr. Frey proceeds cautiously. He desires to secure further information at the lower ranges of bidding.

4—South is far from certain as to whether the hand should even play for game. However, in view of the fact that North has supported his diamond takeout, a contract of four diamonds should be reasonably safe, and it is entirely possible that four hearts might be made. At this time his hopes go no further.

5—Feeling out the distribution of the hand.

6—South, of course, takes the spade bid at its face value and in view of the fact that he holds four cards in it, raises to game.

Mr. Frey afterwards explained that on the bidding he placed his partner with at least the king and one other heart and probably either the king or queen, and at least two other spades. In any event, he believed that the chance of making the slam was better than even and so he carried the contract to its logical conclusion.

In the play, six were made easily. West opening the club ace and then shifting to a spade. It is, of course, apparent that all that is necessary to assure the slam is the finding not more than four hearts in the hand of either adversary, as with this break, three diamonds can be obtained for losers in the spade suit.

GIVES SANCTION TO BIG WORKS

President Approves Start of Some and Resumption of Others

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP).—Huge Government developments in the United States Northwest were approved Saturday by President Roosevelt.

He gave a quick approving nod to the proposed construction of a dam in the Columbia River at Grand Coulee, Washington, that will mark the beginning of the Columbia basin project.

Mr. Roosevelt also signified to the public works board his favor for immediate resumption of work on the nine-foot channel in the Upper Mississippi River and for development of Casper-Alvaca flood control and reclamation project in the North Platte River in Wyoming.

PREVENTING INCREASE

The Administration also disclosed a plan for taking sub-marginal, non-profitable farm lands out of production to prevent any increase in commodity output through the new reclamation plan.

Mr. Roosevelt is opposed to allowing any increase in production. However, he does want the good lands on the new reclamation projects to be used. Enough of the sub-marginal lands will be withdrawn to balance the increase in production.

The Grand Coulee dam is to be 140 feet high and will cost $63,000,000, of which 70 per cent is to be repaid by the State of Washington. This development will be for power alone, and Senator Dill (D., Wash.), one of the outstanding proponents of the project, has estimated it would produce "the cheapest power in the United States."

Scott-Paine Will Seek Harmsworth Trophy in Sept.

DETROIT, July 31 (AP).—Word was received here by the committee in charge of arrangements for the Harmsworth Trophy race that Hubert Scott-Paine, British challenger, has made "full arrangements to come to Detroit." In a cablegram received by the committee today, Scott-Paine said he would make a definite decision regarding his participation in the trophy race not later than Thursday of the present week. There has been some uncertainty scheduled for early in September.

THE DAVIS CUP

The long reign of the French as holders of the Davis Cup, emblematic of the world's lawn tennis championship, has been broken at last and Britain has regained the honor after a lapse of twenty-one years. It has taken many years following the ravages of Britain's youth through the Great War for that country to win back the place which she formerly occupied in sport. There are evidences now that the recovery has set in steadily. The defeat of the holders of the Davis Cup in the challenge round is a notable achievement preceded as it was by the successive defeat of such strong contenders for the trophy as Australia and the United States.

Throughout the European contests and interzone final and the challenge round the burden and heat of the singles matches fell on Messrs. F. J. Perry and H. W. Austin, and the former was also, except in the final match with France, called upon to play in the doubles as well. Both acquitted themselves admirably and whatever may be the final summing up of the roll call of world lawn tennis players for the season there is no doubt that Messrs. Perry and Austin have shown a consistency hardly equaled by any other player, with the exception of Mr. Jack Crawford, the Australian. In the Davis Cup matches much credit, too, must be given to the non-playing captain, Mr. H. Roper Barrett, a veteran of the game, whose astute judgment contributed to the series of victories. It is good for lawn tennis that there should be a change in the holder of the Davis Cup. That fact will arouse greater world interest in the annual event.

UNEMPLOYMENT DECREASING

One of the best of evidences of the recovery from depression is found in decreased unemployment figures in Great Britain. Those figures are decreasing everywhere, but the improvement, as an evidence of legitimate and not forced recovery, is probably more emphatic in Britain than elsewhere. In that country more persons were in employment at the end of June than at any time since June, 1930. In the month of June the estimated increase in the numbers of insured persons employed was 135,000. The increase since January was 508,000. In comparison with the figures of a year ago there was an increase of 461,000. For the six months of the present year the numbers in employment were as follows: January, 9,285,000; February, 9,340,000; March, 9,443,000; April, 9,534,000; May, 9,658,000 and June, 9,793,000.

It is customary, according to past records, for employment during June of each year to remain stationary. This year, however, there has been a notable increase. Since January the actual decline in the total of unemployed has been 464,987. The increase is reflected in nearly every industry. Out of 102 groups there are only fifteen with a change for the worse, but in no case has there been an appreciable relapse. There are 10,000 more employed in general engineering, 3,500 more in the iron and steel trades, 6,500 more in miscellaneous metal and manufacturing industries, 2,700 more in shipbuilding and ship-repairing, 11,000 more in the cotton industry, 2,300 more in the woolen industry, 4,200 more in hosiery trades and 2,800 more in jute trades. Good harvesting weather has summoned 20,000 to work.

The report of the Ministry of Labor shows that at June 26, 1933, there were approximately 9,793,000 insured persons, aged 16 to 64, in employment in Great Britain. The numbers of unemployed persons on the registers of employment exchanges were 1,884,322 wholly unemployed, 463,712 temporarily stopped and 90,074 normally in casual employment, making a total of 2,438,108. This was 144,771 less than the total on the registers at May 22, 1933, and 309,233 less than a year before. The total on June 26, 1933, comprised 2,016,341 men, 51,709 boys, 334,379 women and 35,679 girls.

A SAFEGUARD OF LIBERTY

In April, 1880, Mr. Justice Matthew Crooks Cameron at the Spring Assizes at Barrie, Ontario, asked the Grand Jury to express its opinion on that institution. The reply in part was as follows:

"This tribunal has descended to us hoary with age, its history one long story of the vindication of right and the hindrance of wrong. Founded, as it is, on the fundamental principle of British justice, the Grand Jury—the bulwark of our liberty as it has been fully termed—should be sacred in the eyes of Britons, and be prized no less as a precious heirloom from their forefathers, than as a shield whose protection even the poorest and lowest subject of the realm may, with all confidence, invoke when his rights and liberties are endangered. We have not as yet been shown that the abolition of the Grand Jury and the substitution thereof of some other tribunal to serve its purpose could be undertaken with advantage, either in the shape of a reduction in expense or as removing impediments that interfere with a prompt discharge of judicial functions."

In this finding Mr. Justice Cameron heartily concurred. He said that the fact that "no bill" had been found in some cases was in itself an illustration of the importance of the tribunal as a guardian of the rights and liberties of the people. Then he went on to say: "A person charged with a crime even if acquitted by the petit jury could not feel the humiliation of the position in which he was placed; but if he had been acquitted by the Grand Jury the vindication of his innocence would be complete and there would not attach to him the stigma of being subjected to a public trial as a criminal in the dock. It was a disgrace to any man, however innocent, to have to stand trial in court as a criminal." His Lordship expressed the hope that it would never come to pass in this country "that men would so lose their moral sensibility and their appreciation of the priceless boon of liberty as to regard such a position lightly."

ADVERTISING AND DEPRESSION

The main idea of an Advertising and Marketing Exhibition held a week or so ago at Olympia was to "beat the depression." The slogan of the advertisers was to study success, according to Sir William Crawford. It is not yet properly realized, he says, that in the present economic system advertising has proved not only the most effective but also actually the most inexpensive form of informing millions of consumers about the exact nature of goods that the makers want to sell. He describes advertising as the "fertilizer of trade," which not only stimulates the growth of business but insures that the business remains healthy.

Sir William says that advertising has the peculiar faculty of improving the quality of the goods it sets out to proclaim. It not only makes trade; it goes on, once the trade has been made, to prove itself a critic of the goods it has established. Moreover, it sets a high standard. "It is really a form of insurance," says Sir William. "It induces the public to buy a particular article, and then has to see to it that the article remains at the high standard that it has advertised. It is on 'repeat' orders that advertising returns a profit to the manufacturer, and there are no 'repeat' orders if the product is inferior. Bad goods may sell once. They never sell twice. The public instinctively and subconsciously realize this. They know that advertised goods must necessarily be good."

The recent exhibition was to illustrate to the makers of good goods that they must necessarily be advertised. It was pointed out to them, in the familiar phrase, that they are not in business "for the good of their health." They are there, as Sir William Crawford says, "to make money out of their products, and it is only by advertising them that they will be able to do so."

The radical proclivities of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation received at least one check at the Regina convention of the party. In the regime of Socialism, which it promises as a panacea for all material ills, the C.C.F. has contemplated the forcible seizure of private property and its transformation to national ownership. The U.F.O., who number perhaps the strongest body of its supporters, objected to such seizure without compensation to the owners. The C.C.F. has, therefore, compromised. There will be compensation; at least such is the present plan in the platform, which, however, is susceptible to kaleidoscope changes. The programme of no political party remains static in these days with the winds of public opinion blowing from all directions and veering overnight.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Will, how long they find it instruments of ill.—Pope.

Love of money may be the root of much evil, but we do not believe it is the root of all evil. Envy had greed have been a greater curse to the people of the world than love of money—for envy and greed and the sister vice of inordinate ambition have been the basic cause of the world's direct calamities. Was it not envy which caused Cain to kill Abel? Those people in Canada and some other countries who constantly attack what they call "the Big Interests" are moved by the vice of envy. "Big Interests" are supposed to have something the "Little Interests" would like to have. The "Big Interests" are supposed to be products of the economic system.

If a revolution could be effected in the economic system, there is a belief that there would be "a division of the spoils" accumulated under the condemned economic system and a permanent condition of financial and social equality established. This is of course a human delusion, for just as there are differences in human mental and physical attributes, so there will be inequalities in material circumstances. There is an old saying which completely covers the case: "You cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear."

Some professors of the science of politics affect to believe that the system of protection is especially favorable to the creation and maintenance of "Big Interests." There are supposed to be bigger interests in the United States than there are in any other country, and in the United States the economic system of protection has been developed to a higher degree than in any other country, although that assumption may be combated by reference to the policies of most of the continental countries of Europe. There are supposed to be comparatively "Big Interests" in Canada, and those institutions are the favorite topic of Canadian politicians who profess to be permanently wedded to what they call the principles of "free trade as they have it in England."

Great Britain for more than a century has adhered to the principles of free trade, and only recently recanted and reverted to the principles of protection. "As they had it in England" until the time of that economic revolutionary Sir Robert Peel. But there were "Big Interests" in England both under protection and under free trade, and there are "Big Interests" in England today under an economic system which is a compromise between comparative protection and absolute free trade.

At the Imperial Conference held last year at Ottawa—the only conference on record as having been of making trade free throughout a fourth part of the world. Correspondents of the newspapers, writing from London, declare that Mrs. Postgate-Powell has found at Sidney a specimen of the plan of the Indian Pipe, and that it is a rarity in these parts. I have been astonished to find that the Indian Pipe, sometimes known as the "ghost flower," has suddenly appeared in this year in the woods back of Mount Timble—fine specimens, in very thick clusters, and I am sure this is their first appearance in this region, at any time in the history of the world. I have seen them before, only in the mountains.

OXFORD GROUP MOVEMENT
Sir—Your not infrequent correspondence, Mr. G. Sheppard, was asked by Mr. R. Sanderson, at the Duncan meeting of the C.C.F. on Friday, July 21, to add "Absolute" to his list of principles. His letter in Thursday's Colonist reveals that he has not yet done so. He was unknown to me, and, in a few seconds' conversation after the meeting, he told me that, before attacking any man, he should learn something about him. I asked him to remember that it was he who had added "Absolute" to the list, and that every Christian has solemnly undertaken to live. I also told him that I forgave him.

There was nothing dramatic or public about this. Mr. Sheppard may yet learn that the Oxford Group Movement is not an organization, not a sect, not a new method. It is seeking, not to create a new denomination, but to serve the church from within. It aims to inspire those who call themselves Christians, of any and every denomination, with a new determination to live that life to which they are already solemnly obligated themselves.

It is because so many are not now doing so that they are in their present position. Individually, provincially, nationally and internationally, The World Economic Conference has failed because of indifference, and I have failed. I had no desire to enter the political arena. Being in it, I will see it through. The public meeting which nominated me knew previously from me exactly where I stood and stands. Mr. Sheppard may call it Oxford Group or Cambridge Group. I shall continue to try in private, political or business life, to live up to the standards of the Gospels.

ANIMALS IN THE MOVIES

Sir—There is a strong feeling in this city and country, that a much more rigid censorship of moving pictures is desirable. When doing some investigating of this matter, I discovered that scores adapted only for children were not considered a paying proposition. Also, if pictures had passed censorship in some provinces it was less easy to do them in others. Consequently there are very few performances suited to children and many that are undesirable.

The Sunday Times (London) has had some severe comments of late on cruelty to animals in pictures. I refer to issues of June 11, 18, 25, under such titles as "Wasted Millions," "More Savagery," etc. Referring to a production called "King of the Jungle," the writer asks: "Why are film directors allowed to show scores of animals being tortured for a second in their actual happenings?"

If a showman in this country in real first-hand exhibition had given such a display of cruelty to each of his animals, he would have been fined heavily and probably imprisoned. In what way does the shell of the camera make any difference to the ethical aspect?

Truly appalling is the amount of money, time, talent, energy and ingenuity now being poured into the production of films. I am constantly being forced to the conviction that in no other business in the world is so much capital being sunk to no purpose. Why is there this distinction, of aesthetic pre-eminence, the films seen on the whole singularly barren?

Lately my good friend, all my anger and contempt have been aroused by revolting organs of film photography of wild beasts. I appeal to the societies of animal protection. No film that depicts an animal in a state of terror or anger provoked by the producer or his assistants should be tolerated in our cinemas.

Why should film directors be allowed to put our civilization back to the days of the ancient Romans? The idea that all this monstrous teasing and irritating of animals is permissible to the cameramen while it is criminal to anyone else must be abolished, and for all.

By all means let there be a greater censorship of our pictures.

GAME WARDENS

Sir—Replying to Mr. Campbell's letter of July 10, I fail to understand why he should take such great interest in something that does not concern him. Unless he can obtain a better and more accurate source of information, I would advise him to call it off.

As it now stands, Mr. Kohout's statement is absolutely correct, and he is therefore one up on my old friend from "Argyle."

THE INDIAN PIPE

Sir—You state in yesterday's issue that Mrs. Postgate-Powell has found at Sidney a specimen of the plan of the Indian Pipe, and that it is a rarity in these parts. I have been astonished to find that the Indian Pipe, sometimes known as the "ghost flower," has suddenly appeared in this year in the woods back of Mount Timble—fine specimens, in very thick clusters, and I am sure this is their first appearance in this region, at any time in the history of the world. Socialist. I challenge Mr. Sheppard to apply them to his own life. He will then know how to laugh heartily.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA

Sir—With disgust I read the following heading in The Colonist of July 27: "Would Aid Emigrants to Canada." London, July 26—Creation by the Government of a large and sound organization to assist British people in settling in the Dominion, was urged in the House of Commons today by Colonel C. Kerr, Liberal member for Montreal, during a debate on the World Economic Conference.

"He declared a number of well-organized bodies exist in Canada, supported by various nations, to assist their nationals in settling there. He said 600,000 non-British people had settled in Canada and the number was increasing annually."

Well, I for one will tell Colonel Kerr that he had better keep these people in the Old Country. It is a crime to have a speaker like that at an Economic Conference. Canada, especially British Columbia, is overloaded now with people from the Old Country and other countries who are holding and taking positions which rightfully belong to Canadians. I emphasize on the British Columbia-born, because it is an absolute fact that British Columbia finally becomes the dumping ground of the immigrants.

What is Premier Bennett doing to allow this? We would not now be in this present mess, with thousands of unemployed, if this immigration had been stopped twenty years ago. We need people in the provinces with vision and the sooner we get them the better.

Canada, to look after its own people first, should be our motto. Each province should take time like these to look after its own native-born unemployed; the time is ripe for such action.

In closing, I may state it is time Canada was to her own flag, the same as the U.S.A. If we do not watch out we will have another war on our hands. Reading between the lines of the press, I seem to see it brewing not far from us.

"A PRAYER HYMN"

Sir—In The Daily Colonist for Friday, July 28, you published "A Prayer Hymn," said to have been written by a nineteen-year-old servant girl.

Unfortunately, this was only a portion—an incorrect portion—of a prayer, which is well worth giving in full, and for that purpose I enclose you a copy of the original poem.

MARY A. APJOHN,
1833 Pell Street, Victoria, B.C., July 29, 1933.

THE DIVINE OFFICE OF THE KITCHEN

"God walks among the pots and pipkins." Lord of the pots and pipkins, since I have no time to do more, I seem to see it brewing not far from us.

By praying in the twilight dawn and morning, Heaven's gates are opened, and the angels are waiting to receive the prayers of the faithful.

Lord, make Thy Cinderella a heavenly princess!
Warm all the kitchen with Thy love, and hush it with Thy peace.
Forgive the wretched, and make the grumbling to cease.
Lord, the pots and pipkins, forgive the world that saith:
"Oen any good thing come to God out of poor man's mouth."

SALMON TRANSPORTED BY ALL-WATER ROUTE TO GREAT LAKES PORT

OSHAWA, July 31.—Marking the first occasion upon which such a shipment had arrived at this important Great Lakes port, the City of Hamilton, of Canada Steamship Lines, arrived here with 400 cases of British Columbia salmon, the first cargo to come from the Pacific Coast to this city by the all-water route. It is understood that a similar cargo is now en route to the same destination.

The cargo was transferred to the City of Hamilton from an ocean-going vessel at Montreal for the final stage of the long all-water journey.

STEAL MONEY AND POLICEMAN'S GUN

Bandit Takes $1,500 From Officer and Bank Messenger in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., July 31 (AP).—A policeman and a bank messenger were held up and robbed of $1,521 here, today, by a bandit who escaped with the money and the policeman's revolver. The officer was Patrolman A. L. Chamberlain. He was escorting C. L. Huston, banking messenger for the Western Dairy Company.

Chamberlain said he saw a car parked at the curb in front of the dairy when he entered at four o'clock. He saw four men, apparently from this automobile, were in the dairy when he and Huston walked out with the money bag.

The policeman said he and the messenger got in the car and started away, and one of the men ran out of the dairy and jumped on the running board, riding for a block before he drew his revolver and demanded the money.

Community Service And Lantern Slide Display Is Approved

PUBLIC approval of the Remembrance Day committee's community service and display of lantern slides depicting Victoria's part in the Great War, which will take place in Beacon Hill Park next Sunday at 8:30 p.m., is being expressed in all circles according to a statement made to The Colonist by a representative of the committee.

An effort will be made to secure the attendance of the pipe band of the Portland Legion. This band, which is well known in the Pacific Coast towns of Washington, Oregon and California, would be a most attractive feature. The Remembrance Day committee, which is representative of all veterans' organizations in Victoria, will unite with the public in a vast congregation that will recall old memories and pay a tribute of respect to the memory of the men who marched away from this city to make the supreme sacrifice.

Due at Chicago 7:10 p.m., August 18, the Kitsilano organization is scheduled to make its debut in the World's Fair city at 10 a.m. August 19 at the Knickerbocker Hotel, playing on the evening of August 19 at Soldiers' Field, in competition with other bands. Both these appearances are in connection with The Tribune's international tournament.

En route to Chicago, the Vancouver boys are slated to appear in concerts during stopovers at Kamloops and Revelstoke, Banff, Alberta, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Winnipeg, Man. At most of these cities they have played on former occasions while on their way to and from the National Exhibition in Toronto and the popularity gained on these visits is expected to draw large crowds.

REPRESENT CANADA

At Chicago, Mr. Delamont and his boys hope to wrest world laurels from the pick of American, British and European bands, and they are alone in carrying Canada's maple leaf standard into the musical arena at the Century of Progress Exhibition.

A group of fine young musicians in which Vancouver prides itself, the Kitsilano Boys' Band was organized in 1927 by Arthur W. Delamont, bandmaster, and Capt. R. C. Stevens, principal of General Gordon School. First named in honor of this school, it later became known as the Kitsilano Boys' Band, and after a year, after attaining an international reputation, changed its title to Vancouver Kitsilano Boys' Band as a better means of identification.

Touching upon institutions, he mentioned law and order and freedom, particularly religious freedom. These were institutions that British people were proud of and wished to have continued. They were represented by the King, because he expressed the will of the people.

The King also embodied British ideals, such as British justice, and British characteristics, such as faithfulness to duty, national honor, thoroughness and love of country.

At the close of the meeting the National Anthem was sung with a new spirit, and every verse was sung, rather than just the first verse.

GRAVE CHARGES FACED BY TRIO

Police Believe Recent Robberies Have Been Solved by Arrests Made Here

When the police rounded up James E. MacNaughton, William Watkins and Frank Davies over the week-end, they believed they had a solution for a number of robberies that have been taking place in different parts of the city for the past few weeks.

The three were charged in the city police court yesterday morning with having stolen goods in their possession, knowing them to be stolen, and also with having narcotics in the form of morphine and cocaine contrary to the statutes. In addition to this, MacNaughton was charged with breaking and entering Dr. M. J. Keys' office in the Pemberton Block, with similar charges against Watkins and Davies. James Adams, the Aaronson Drug Store and the Beggs Motor premises. He pleaded guilty to all the charges before Magistrate Jay and was remanded until Thursday for sentence.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

The other two entered pleas of not guilty to the charges laid against them of having stolen goods and narcotics, which were found in the house alleged to be occupied by them on Earsman Street.

When MacNaughton appeared in court yesterday he bore the marks of having made an attempt to get away from his captors early Sunday morning in the Pemberton Building. George Hawes and Stanley Weston, janitors at the premises, sighted the accused trying to leave the building at 2 o'clock in the morning. They gave chase down four flights of stairs and captured MacNaughton, who had run into one of the walls instead of the door.

Yesterday morning had two large plasters on his forehead where he had tested the solidity of the wall.

MAKE ARRESTS

Constables Perkins Atkinson and Harry Mercer arrived on a call from the janitors at the Pemberton Building and took the accused into custody.

Learn Detectives Henry Jarvis and Leonard Woodburn visited the Earsman Street house and made the arrest of Watkins and Davies, with the discovery of goods allegedly stolen.

The hearing of the evidence on the charges was postponed until Thursday also.

TELLS OF WORK AMONG NATIVES

Ensign A. F. Parkinson Gives Encouraging Report on Influence of Salvation Army

Trials and successes of the Salvation Army with the Alaska and British Columbia Indians of the Interior, were outlined, in brief, last night by Ensign A. F. Parkinson, who has worked among the natives of those districts for the last six years. Ensign Parkinson, who is stationed at the Indian settlement of Glen Vowell, outside Hazelton, has been visiting in the city for some weeks. Accompanied by Mrs. Parkinson, he will leave Thursday.

Quick to learn, the Indians of Alaska and the British Columbia Interior, are far superior, intellectually, to the Prairie natives, Mr. Parkinson said. Religious classes for native children are being held semi-weekly at Glen Vowell, and all are embracing the Christian faith, he stated. By leading the way, and urging the men to imitate his work, Mr. Parkinson is slowly bringing into being a number of fine farms in the district.

As lawlessness of whites is now under hand, Indians are easier to convert to right living, the speaker told the audience, and evil is quickly giving ground.

VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL OPENED

Three-Week Bible Classes at Metropolitan Church Has Enrollment of Fifty-Seven Pupils

With an enrollment of fifty-seven pupils on the first day, the Vacation Church School under the auspices of the First Methodist and Metropolitan churches opened yesterday at Metropolitan Church, Rev. J. H. A. Warr, the general superintendent, stated that he expected the attendance to be doubled in a short time.

The school, which will last for three weeks, is divided into three departments, each with its own head and assistants. Mrs. M. Naysmith is superintendent of the primary department, with Miss Dorothy Scott and Miss Beth Stewart as her assistants. The junior department is under the supervision of Miss E. Hudson, with Miss M. Mossop, Miss P. Benson, Miss D. Davis and Miss N. Halliday as assistants, while the intermediate department is under the guidance of Miss E. H. Jones, with Miss N. Halliday, Miss M. Bowden and Mrs. M. Hammond under her direction.

The programme of the school includes Bible discussion periods, Bible stories, psalms, hymns, handwork and recreation. In the boys' division, the handbook takes the form of coping-saw work, while the girls' handwork is chiefly sewing.

The Summer school for the Presbytery of Victoria, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Association, opened at St. Andrew's Church last night, with an excellent attendance. Rev. Dr. Walter Ellis, principal of the Vancouver Bible School and minister of the Fairview Presbyterian Church, will give a series of lectures at the school, which will continue until Friday night.

Dr. Ellis was introduced last night by the Rev. Dr. A. O. Thomson, and commenced his lectures. The entire course, it was stated by Mr. Thomson, is open to the public. Dr. Ellis will lecture on three subjects, the first three chapters of the Old Testament as a basis, "The Bible Account of Creation and Its Vindication," "The Fall of Man" and "Sin and Its Remedy."

In addition to these lectures, Dr. Ellis will deliver five lectures on Sunday school teacher training and on the training of church workers.

W. B. Hutchison Tells of Great Attractions in B.C. for Residents of Country

W. B. Hutchison, speaking before the Gyro Club yesterday, advised British Columbians to learn more of their own province instead of spending their holidays in the South. There were wonderful lessons, he pointed out, to be gained by a tour through the province, and residents would do well to acquaint themselves with the wonderful resources that British Columbia possessed.

Mr. Hutchison gave a hurried description of the Bridge River mining section, where some of the properties were turning out exceedingly well, and in the camp, tremendously rich specimens were secured.

Along the Cariboo Road, the speaker took his hearers with reminiscences of the days of the gold rush into that country. A description was given of the Chilcotin ranching country, with its immense herds of cattle, and the Barkerville camp, where the gold mines are attracting so much attention now.

BARKERVILLE REVIVES

Barkerville had some 10,000 persons in the mines at one time in the sixties of the last century. There were some who had waited there for the return of the halcyon days and they were experiencing them now.

The attractions of Prince George and the valleys of Central British Columbia were described, with special attention paid to the section about Hazelton and Kispiox.

Mr. Denny said that the business situation in the United States is decidedly changed for the better. ORCHESTRA IS COMPLIMENTED

Young Musicians Going to Vancouver Heard in Concert Last Night

A demonstration by the eighteen-piece string orchestra that is going from here to Vancouver, this morning to compete at the Pacific Exposition Music Festival, was featured by George Dyke in his studio recital at the New Thought hall last evening.

The recital being given to augment the funds to pay the orchestra's expenses to the festival.

Playing the festival test piece, Minuet from "Berenice" (Handel), and two selections from Dr. Dyke's suite, "In Pile Land." The orchestra displayed good balance, fine resonance and "bite" in the music, and a commendably crisp attack and attention to rests.

Offer any suggestions for the improvement of the ensemble, Mr. Dyke said. The orchestra, in connection with her helpful and encouraging criticism, seized the occasion to express, on behalf of the listeners, very hearty congratulations to Mr. Dyke and his orchestra, and expressed every good wish for their success in Vancouver.

LIKE REHEARSAL

An interesting part of the demonstration was that Mr. Dyke conducted it like a rehearsal. The young musicians, who showed an alert and intelligent interest, said they had three weeks in which to polish up their work.

The entire programme, last evening, was an invigorating demonstration of fine work being accomplished in this studio. The very fine little ensemble opened the programme by playing Handel's "Largo" and "Andante" and "March Rondo," and later they played a selection from "Der Freischütz," "Andante and Rondo," by Pleyel; Lachmund's "Lullaby," and Tchaikovsky's "Intermezzo." Mr. Dyke conducting. Their intonation, like that of the splendid little trio that played during the evening, was excellent, the tone sweet and rich, and they were very warmly applauded. They then played two movements from Weber's "Preciosa," comprised Fay Ockenden, Ellen Brayshaw, Grace Koyama, with Miss Helen Ockenden at the piano and Mr. Dyke conducting.

OTHER NUMBERS

Other numbers, all much enjoyed, were Grace Koyama's playing of Handel's "Hornpipe," and Lachmund's "Musette." Pay Ockenden's performance of the allegro movement from Handel's "Sonata in G Minor"; Ellen Brayshaw's playing of two movements of Handel's "Sonata in A"; Leslie Jordan's playing of the "Prelude and Allegro" by Mascatti; the duet for two violins, and the second movement from Bach's "Double Concerto."

In addition to the above, all of which showed splendid preparation, Miss Helen Ockenden, a gifted and imaginative young pianist, who has returned from her studies in Toronto to enjoy a short holiday here, delighted the audience with her fine piano performance of the Last Movement of the "Sonata in A," which was followed, as an encore, by the fiery "Malagueña" from Lecuona's suite, "Andalusia." She also accompanied some of the soloists during the evening.

After the concert, the hall was cleared, and supper and dancing took place.

LECTURES START AT ST. ANDREW'S

Dr. Walter Ellis Begins Series of Addresses at Presbyterian Summer School Here

The Summer school for the Presbytery of Victoria, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Young Peoples' Association, opened at St. Andrew's Church last night, with an excellent attendance. Rev. Dr. Walter Ellis, principal of the Vancouver Bible School and minister of the Fairview Presbyterian Church, will give a series of lectures at the school, which will continue until Friday night.

Dr. Ellis was introduced last night by the Rev. Dr. A. O. Thomson, and commenced his lectures. The entire course, it was stated by Mr. Thomson, is open to the public. Dr. Ellis will lecture on three subjects, the first three chapters of the Old Testament as a basis, "The Bible Account of Creation and Its Vindication," "The Fall of Man" and "Sin and Its Remedy."

In addition to these lectures, Dr. Ellis will deliver five lectures on Sunday school teacher training and on the training of church workers.

ADVISES MAKING PROVINCE TOURS

W. B. Hutchison Tells of Great Attractions in B.C. for Residents of Country

W. B. Hutchison, speaking before the Gyro Club yesterday, advised British Columbians to learn more of their own province instead of spending their holidays in the South. There were wonderful lessons, he pointed out, to be gained by a tour through the province, and residents would do well to acquaint themselves with the wonderful resources that British Columbia possessed.

Mr. Hutchison gave a hurried description of the Bridge River mining section, where some of the properties were turning out exceedingly well, and in the camp, tremendously rich specimens were secured.

Along the Cariboo Road, the speaker took his hearers with reminiscences of the days of the gold rush into that country. A description was given of the Chilcotin ranching country, with its immense herds of cattle, and the Barkerville camp, where the gold mines are attracting so much attention now.

BARKERVILLE REVIVES

Barkerville had some 10,000 persons in the mines at one time in the sixties of the last century. There were some who had waited there for the return of the halcyon days and they were experiencing them now.

The attractions of Prince George and the valleys of Central British Columbia were described, with special attention paid to the section about Hazelton and Kispiox.

Mr. Denny said that the business situation in the United States is decidedly changed for the better. There is a very strong disposition on the part of the business men there to fall in line fully with the policy which President Roosevelt has launched, realizing that only by united action will it be possible to get the best results from such a policy.

George Denny Says United States Business Men Are Aiding President's Policy

George Denny, of San Francisco, is paying his annual visit to his old home in Victoria. Formerly associated with The Colonist, editorial staff, Mr. Denny, for over a quarter of a century, filled important posts as a member of the Associated Press, being located, among other centres, in London, Eng., and Tokyo.

For some time he has lived in San Francisco, acting in an advisory capacity in connection with the Associated Press service.

Mr. Denny says that the business situation in the United States is decidedly changed for the better. There is a very strong disposition on the part of the business men there to fall in line fully with the policy which President Roosevelt has launched, realizing that only by united action will it be possible to get the best results from such a policy.

THE WONDERFUL SUCCESS THAT HAS attended this work in all parts of the world has been a great encouragement to Salvation Army workers. In recent years the Army tag day has proved to be one of the most popular appeals, and officers of the organization hope that this year a good response will be met with. A number of taggers have volunteered their services, and Adjutant Sharp, financial organizer, asks others, who will help, to telephone Empire 8046.

PERU BUYS
AIRPLANES

Product of British Makers
Chosen by South American Republic

Press reports received in London announce the arrival at Lima, Peru, of six Fairley Seal biplanes, purchased for the Peruvian military air service. Within the past few days they have been flown, and have received the entire approbation of the Peruvian authorities.

Each of the airplanes is equipped with a single Armstrong Siddeley 335-horsepower Panther air-cooled engine. Seven engines are comprised in the order. Recently a number of these machines were delivered to the Air Ministry for use with the Fleet Air Arm as high speed reconnaissance and general purpose craft. Like all of the British airplanes of this class the Seal is equipped with wheel landing gear, and is capable of operating from a wide range of duties, including fighting, reconnaissance, gunnery spotting and aerial photography. It can be employed with wheel or float undercarriage; the change from one form of chassis to another is rapid and easy.

SPECIAL GEAR
The special flotation gear fitted in the machine makes it practically unsinkable. Most of the interior of the fuselage is filled with air bags, and recent tests have proved the value of the system, not only in facilitating salvage of an airplane after a forced descent on the water, but also in affording the crew increased chances of rescue.

In official test flights earlier this year, a Seal fitted with wheels was deliberately "landed" on the sea. It was floating, a naval pinnace struck it and damaged the tail unit and fuselage. A few minutes later a large warship ran it down, driving it completely under water, but the airplane and those on board, the machine bobbed up on the other side of the ship, apparently little the worse.

With normal fuselage the Seal's range is approximately 650 miles, which may be increased to nearly 1,300 miles by the addition of bomb-shaped tanks carried below the wings. At essential points the structure is specially strengthened to withstand the shocks of catapult launching, which is the only means of getting an airplane into the air from a ship that is not an aircraft carrier and has no flying deck.

The Peruvian report is particularly important because it marks the "invasion" by a British firm of a country, which in the past has bought largely from constructors of other lands, notably the United States. Steadily the British aircraft industry, supreme for the past four years in the world's export trade, extends its activities to those few countries which have previously acquired their airplanes elsewhere.

VANCOUVER, July 31 (CP).—The Hudson's Bay Company's Ss. Anyox, with her Vancouver crew, has been freed from the ice, south of Point Barrow, by United States Coast Patrol Northland, and is due at Teller, Alaska, today.

Whether the ship will be able to complete repairs and venture another attempt to pass Point Barrow, carrying winter supplies to Hudson's Bay and R.C.M.P. posts, is undecided. Captain B. D. Johnson, her commander, in a wireless message at midnight Sunday, stated that the hull will be patched and the cargo restowed. Then the Anyox will proceed to Dutch Harbor for survey.

"I don't know what happened to those other five days," he said. The voyage to Dutch Harbor will require several days, and a second attempt to pass Barrow would be late in the season and would necessitate a quick turn round, for the Arctic ice pack locks at Point Barrow late in August.

The Northland reached the distressed Anyox on Saturday, broke a passage to her, and then assisted her to open water, where she was able to proceed under her own power.

Win Cup

VANCOUVER, July 31 (CP).—One of the interesting events at the annual Granthams, Howe Sound, regatta on Saturday, was a race for home-made sailboats. The youngsters had to devise their own sails from various materials and fit up their rowboats as "windbags."

One of the visitors was Captain F. W. Roberts, a former seadog. He thought he would like to try his old skill as a windjammer man, so borrowed a dinghy from ex-Alderman W. G. Atherton. For canvas he used a piece of tent, cutting out and sewing a useful sail and rigging a tall spar. And the old skill held good, for Roberts' entry was an easy winner in the race around Shelter Island.

A cup presented by Commodore E. W. Hamber, of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, for a perpetual "home-made sailboat" contest is now in possession of the captain for a year.

Johnson, her commander, in a wireless message at midnight Sunday, stated that the hull would be patched and the cargo restowed. Then the Anyox will proceed to Dutch Harbor for survey.

"I don't know what happened to those other five days," he said. The voyage to Dutch Harbor will require several days, and a second attempt to pass Barrow would be late in the season and would necessitate a quick turn round, for the Arctic ice pack locks at Point Barrow late in August.

The Northland reached the distressed Anyox on Saturday, broke a passage to her, and then assisted her to open water, where she was able to proceed under her own power.

TROPHY WON BY
FORMER SEADOGVeteran Borrowed Boat and Cut Tent Cloth to Win Cup

VANCOUVER, July 31 (CP).—One of the interesting events at the annual Granthams, Howe Sound, regatta on Saturday, was a race for home-made sailboats. The youngsters had to devise their own sails from various materials and fit them to their rowboats as "windbags."

One of the visitors was Captain F. W. Roberts, a former seadog. He thought he would like to try his hand as a windjammer, and so borrowed a dinghy from ex-Alderman W. G. Atherton. For canvas he used a piece of tent, cutting out and sewing a useful sail and rigging a tall spar. And the old skill held good, for Roberts' entry was an easy winner in the race around Shelter Island.

A trip presented by Commodore E. W. Hamber, of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, for a perpetual "home-made sailboat" contest is now in possession of the captain for a year.

PERU BUYS
AIRPLANES

Product of British Makers
Chosen by South American Republic

Press reports received in London announce the arrival at Lima, Peru, of six Fairley Seal biplanes, purchased for the Peruvian military air service. Within the past few days they have been flown and have received the entire approbation of the Peruvian authorities.

Each of the airplanes is equipped with a single Armstrong Siddeley 335-horsepower Panther air-cooled engine. Seven engines are comprised in the order. Recently spotted and aerial photography is being employed with the biplanes. The number of these machines were delivered to the Air Ministry for use with the Fleet Air Arm as high speed reconnaissance and general purpose craft. Like all of the British airplanes of this class the Seal is equipped with dual controls, including fighting, reconnaissance, gunnery spotting and aerial photography. It is also equipped with a float undercarriage; the change from one form of chassis to another is rapid and easy.

The special rotation gear fitted in the machine makes it practically unsinkable. Most of the interior of the fuselage is filled with air bags, and recent tests have proved the value of the system not only in facilitating salvage of an airplane after a forced descent on the water, but also in affording the crew increased chances of rescue.

In official tests earlier this year, a Seal fitted with wheels was deliberately "landed" on the water. While the landing was in progress a naval pinnace struck it and damaged the tail unit and fuselage. A few minutes later a large warship ran it over, but the machine bobbed up on the other side of the ship, apparently little the worse.

With normal fuel tankage the still-air range is approximately 650 miles, which may be increased to nearly 1,300 miles by the addition of bomb-shaped tanks carried below the wings. At essential points the structure is specially strengthened to withstand the shocks of catapult launching, which is the only means of getting an airplane into the air from a ship that is not an aircraft carrier and has no flying deck.

The Peruvian report is particularly important because it means the "invasion" by a British firm of a country, which in the past has bought largely from constructors of other lands, notably the United States.

Steadily the British aircraft industry, supreme for the past four years in the world's export trade, extends its activities to those few countries which have previously acquired their airplanes elsewhere.

Travel Interest
Increasing With Business Revival

SEATTLE, July 31.—Further indications of the improved business tone in the United States are shown here by reports of increased passenger bookings for the Fall and Winter, trans-Pacific and around-the-world, registered by the American Mail Line.

"Travel to Japan, China and the Philippines now seems to be distinctly on the upturn," states one company official. "Doubtless this is the lessening of armed conflict in inner China and the quieting down of Oriental politics. Fully half of our inquiries concerning Oriental travel include references to Peiping. Indicating that Americans are not doubting the safety of inland travel and have the money to go where they will."

"American interest now appears to have been pivoted concerning the tour of the Southern Philippine Islands, Panay, Zamboanga and Cebu, now gaining repute as being equal in color and charm to many parts of the Netherlands East Indies. The Ss. Mayon makes this round trip from Manila in only five days, allowing ample time for visits ashore. Java and Bali are holding their own as travel Meccas, but inquiries concerning India for the coming season have somewhat fallen off. The winter travel around the world will be heavier than for some seasons past."

Britannia Copper Concentrates
Going to Antwerp

VANCOUVER, July 31 (CP).—Copper concentrates from Britannia Mines continue to move to Antwerp, and a second shipment is being loaded today for that market. Antwerp started to buy British Columbia mine products in June, when 2,241 short tons were shipped on the freighter, Titania. Today, Ms. Sveadrott, under charter to Ocean Shipping Co. Ltd., arrived at Britannia Beach to load a further parcel of 2,000 tons for Antwerp.

According to information received from the mines, these shipments will probably not become a regular movement, though it is expected that 4,000 to 5,000 tons additional may go forward during the next few months. But the European market is so influenced by exchange that it is not believed the movement to Antwerp can be considered a permanent feature.

Mrs. Luscombe's family consists of eight children living, twelve grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

DELIGHTFUL FEATURE

A delightful feature of the occasion was the presence of Miss Emma Luscombe, a sister-in-law, eighty-five years of age, who, like the hostess, enjoys splendid health.

During the afternoon Mrs. Edward Parsons delighted those present with the singing of two songs, "Because" and "Mother Macrae." Refreshments were served, Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Jennings pouring tea, while Mrs. Ritchie, assisted by the Misses Lillian and Patricia Knight, Lenora Jennings and Kathleen Ritchie, four granddaughters of the hostess, served the guests from the daintily decorated table.

CAME FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. Luscombe, formerly Miss Louisa Ford, was born in England on July 29, 1853, and came to Canada as a girl with her father's family, making their home in the Muskoka district of Ontario. Shortly after arrival she was united in marriage to the late Thomas Luscombe, of Cornwall, England, and they lived in Hamilton for three years. In 1876 they came West via San Francisco, then the only route, and took up residence in this city. Mr. Luscombe passed away several years ago.

ACTIVE CHURCH MEMBER

During her sojourn here, Mrs. Luscombe has taken an active interest in all movements that have had as their object the advancement of the city, and has seen many changes take place—the city having grown from almost a village to its present position among Canadian cities. For over fifty-seven years Mrs. Luscombe has been associated with Metropolitan Church, taking her part in its many undertakings for the benefit of humanity.

AT HAMSTERLEY LAKESIDE

Dancing in the country again proved extremely popular at Hamsterley Lakeside last Saturday night. The winner of the guessing contest was Miss E. Kilby, 3316 Glasgow Street. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Halton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Shore, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Semple, Mrs. W. O. Thomas, Misses P. Cliff, Heller, D. Winkler, E. Vallant, E. George, D. M. Clayton, D. Brodhead, R. Monk, M. Cornwall, E. Irvine, L. Ormond, D. Cooper, D. Anderson, D. S. Tyrer, M. E. Carleton, B. Cornwall, M. Otto, E. Rust, D. Scott, M. Ford, B. Cooley, Messrs. Capt. G. S. Gibson, G. T. Smith, R. McLaughlin, J. D. Ganois, S. Tidbury, L. Vallant, D. F. Carey, E. D. Ironsides, L. Ross, E. Tidbury, McClelland, F. G. Harper, Jr. and J. Jewkes.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER
Wake Up Your Liver Bile. Feel Fit. You Needn't use Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel "off-color."
Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your stomach and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of constipation, flatulence, indigestion, headache, drowsiness, nervousness, and a host of other ailments. You feel like a caged animal. Your skin is unhealthy and often you break out in acne. Your whole system seems out of kilter.
How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, oil, laxative and/or chewing gum, or rouge? These only move the bowels, and often you feel worse. You must wake up your liver bile.
A natural, rational (scientific) way. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time. Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be sure you get Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c at all druggists.

WIFE FOR SALE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

SYNOPSIS

Norah Oliver, who lives with her widowed mother, her brother Keith, and her sister Eve in a small New York flat, has her job almost at the same time that Keith loses his. They have no money except the $14 a week earned by Eve, who is a stenographer, and the $10 a week earned by Norah, who is a school teacher. If worst comes to worst, Keith says, he can go to Chinatown, where a job at $10 a month awaits him. But he is in love and does not want to leave his fiancée, Anna, who is a school teacher and an only daughter, living with her parents and grandparents in a plush nice neighborhood than the Oliver's. They do not tell Mrs. Oliver, who is an invalid, that they are out of work, and Norah pretends that her employer is letting her off early in the afternoon so she can take care of her mother. Mrs. Oliver, however, has a way of her own. She has a small rooming house and lives on Park Avenue. Norah, who is a stenographer, is a wholehearted devotee of her mother. A wholehearted devotee, was still alive, and David seemed interested in her even after they had to move to their new quarters, but gradually he stopped calling. Marring David, she realizes, is impossible, but the thought of marriage and what it might mean to her family gives her an idea. And, being desperate, she puts it into effect. She writes a letter to a newspaper offering to marry some man who will contribute $20,000 to the support of her "invalid father." She signs the letter "Wife for Sale." Mrs. Oliver, still unaware that Keith and Norah are jobless, talks of plans for the summer. As she mentions David, saying, "I thought it was all thought-out—that something so happy was going to come of it..."

CHAPTER III

The David affair had indeed commenced in happiness and confidence; everything was changed now, and Norah hated to remember it, hated to think of him. She had met him at one of the big football games at Princeton, just before her father's death. Norah had gone with a boy named Bunny Myers—she had not liked Bunny much, but her escort rather than missing the game, had been acceptable, and Bunny had led her, bundled up in Eve's new coat, and very pretty under a new brown hat, to excellent seats. And right behind them had been a party of four: two men and two girls, all old friends of Bunny's—Miss Porter and Miss Elmer, and Mr. Thomas and Mr. Howard.

"Well," the boy said, "I wouldn't want one of my sisters to get mixed up in any such business."

Ah, what a day that had been for Norah to remember, a day of crisp winter cold and the scent of violets; a day of growing excitement and triumph in her soul.

For David—he had only remained "Mr. Howard" for the first half of the game—had leaned over her shoulder, talked to her, laughed at her, showed in every way that he had been as much taken with Miss Oliver as Norah had felt herself to be with him. It had been instantaneous; thrilling and absorbing to them both. After all, the pretty Miss Elmer had had taken to the game had proved to be his cousin, engaged to the great halfback they were all watching and cheering so enthusiastically. Norah had not been poaching on any other girl's preserves.

After the game they had all gone together to the Wilsons'. As far as Norah could ascertain, the Wilsons had no children, had no personal interest in the game. But they had an enormous, warm, luxurious house near the football field, and they had had three and big comfortable rooms and inexhaustible food; trays and trays of sandwiches and salads; fleets of smoking coffee cups and cakes. Some hundred young persons had been streaming about enjoying all this, and not the least had been Norah and David, ensconced in a starry ingle behind palms, eating and drinking ravenously, laughing and talking eagerly, absorbed in the intoxicating emotions of that different kind of hunger and thirst that seems only to increase with the lowering of voices, the shy meeting of hands.

Bewilderedly, still together, they had sought out the Wilsons' at about eight o'clock, for grateful good-byes, and David had walked with Norah to her own house, the Oliver's pretty cottage not far from the college buildings. Here David had duly met her father in his invalid chair by the fire, and pretty little Eve and Norah's mother. Her mother had been quite frankly apologetic, quite honestly putting the last touches to an orderly kitchen; the Oliver had never been rich and they had no pretences.

Ah, yes, but that had been a pretty sort of poverty after all. It had been dignified, understandable; it had had nothing in common with the changes, the strange new order of things after Norah's father had died. The Oliver had come to New York then, to real poverty, the poverty of crowdedness and noise, of airshafts and house smells and angry neighboring voices, of shabbiness and weariness and discouragement.

For a while David had accepted all this cheerfully, loyally. He had brought Norah candy, discussed her first job sympathetically with her, taken her to movies. Late in his college year because of years spent with his mother in Europe, David had been listening through his telephone grades, his car cost him more than Norah could earn. But he liked her, admired her, laughed at her; her changed fortune made no difference to David Howard.

At first, that is, she knew exactly the day—almost the hour, when he had begun to feel the strain of their friendship; when richer girls, girls who chattered of cars and dances, trips and frocks and house parties, had begun to make their impression. She knew it increasingly; his absent-mindedness, his very kindness had told her.

And now, for months, she had had no word from him at all.

On the Saturday night that ended the anxious and disappointing weeks, she and Keith were reading in the sitting-room after dinner. Their mother was asleep.

Norah had fallen into a sort of dream in her chair, and having secured, in her own imagination, an opportunity to take a small part in a forthcoming Broadway production, was in process of killing off the leading lady to afford herself a further chance, when Keith suddenly muttered "Damn!" under his breath.

His sister looked up, surprised, and at the sight of his anxious face her own grew sober.

"What's the matter, Keith?"

"Oh, nothing," he said, as he had said a week ago. But this time his tone was different, and his expression did not indicate his old carefree confidence.

"You and Anne haven't quarrelled?"

"Oh, no. Nothing like that. It's only—Keith said rather—'It's only that I'll be damned if I know quite how we're going to get out of this.'"

Norah felt a first premonitory conviction that matters really were serious. If Keith were scared—

"Well, Eve's salary will pay the rent," she suggested helpfully.

"Yes, but it's nice to laugh," Keith offered. And they both laughed suddenly and reluctantly.

"Well," Norah presently said, feeling the better for the laugh, "we're going to be beaten. We're as intelligent as most people, and we're healthy and young, and we're willing to work hard."

"I know," Keith agreed, as she paused. "And I tell myself that we will work out of this—in three years it'll all be straightened out somehow. But the point is, how? There's no one we could borrow from."

They were both silent. Suddenly Norah said dubiously, "There's Bill Gunther."

Her brother's brow grew dark.

"I'll be damned," he said firmly, "if I ever give that rotter a chance to patronize us. Anyway," he added suddenly, "he hasn't got anything. He has his job, and his father has money—that's all there is to that."

It was at breakfast on Monday that Eve said casually, amusedly, "Listen, Norah—here's a girl in the paper who says she will marry any man who will take care of her invalid father!"

"Oh, no!" Norah said, feeling the room to around.

She reached for the paper; they had put her letter at the top of the column.

"I think it's silly, because she wouldn't, nobody would," Eve said.

"You notice she doesn't put in her name," Keith commented.

"Exactly," Norah managed to say unsteadily.

"What kind of man would take up a proposition like that?" the younger sister observed, leaning against Norah's arm to reread the letter.

Norah, after a panicky glance that reassured her as to her not having been, by any horrible chance, betrayed, thought that the phrase of the letter rolled along very well.

"What kind of man?" Keith repeated Eve's query. "Oh, a rotter of some sort, looking for a few evenings' fun or blackmail, or for a chance to insure her and then murder her."

"Oh, Keith, does it follow?" Norah asked, trying for an idle, natural voice.

"Well," the boy said, with a touch of the haughtiness that was characteristic of the Oliver's, "I wouldn't want one of my sisters to get mixed up in any such business."

"I should hope not," Norah agreed dutifully, reading the letter again. She was fascinated by the sight of her own words actually in print, and that day the dreary business of job-hunting was brightened by the thought of the various men, lonely men, who might see the open forum today, and wish that they might get in touch with "Wife for Sale."

The next morning, printed in the same newspaper column, there were denning or praising "Wife for Sale."

Among the persons also Norah found three invitations addressed to "Wife for Sale."

In the second week of December, things came to a crisis. All Norah's money was gone. Keith's was almost gone. Mrs. Oliver's doctor said encouragingly that she could go on now to a diet of broiled chicken, cream, chops, roast beef. "And after Christmas we must see about getting those delicate tubes of yours into the sunshine somewhere," he said.

ENGLAND CAPTURES DAVIS CUP TENNIS FINAL

Perry Wins Final Singles to Cinch Highest Net Prize

First Sets English Star Defeats Merlin in Four Sets After Cohet Had Triumphed Over Austin—Victory First for England in Last Twenty Years

(Canadian Press and Associated Press) AUTHEIL, France, July 31.—Great Britain now holds the historic Davis Cup for the first time since 1912, having ended France's six-year international tennis reign with a three-two victory in the challenge round.

The British triumph yesterday robbed France of a chance of tying the record of seven successive Davis Cup victories and took from Paris this silver bowl which almost had become identified with the national honor.

Frederick J. Perry, galloping steed of the British squad, rounded off a great victory in the final and deciding match, beating audacious Andre Merlin, French youngster, 4-6, 8-6, 6-2, 7-5, after Henri Cohet had defeated Bunny Austin in a stubborn duel, 5-7, 6-4, 6-6, 6-4, to square the series count at two all.

The bitterness of defeat was softened somewhat for the French by Cohet's gallant comeback after his unexpected defeat in the singles Friday and by the plucky fight Merlin made against Perry.

There were times when the French thought a fairy hand was reaching over the court to give the weaker player victory over the stronger. A capacity Sunday crowd shouted, screamed and applauded their former hero, Cohet, and passed to moments of virtual delirium when Merlin played magnificently to win the first set from Perry.

The youngster, aided by the crowd, rattled Perry from the first game, which the Frenchman won at love. The newcomer to cup play launched into an accurate volleying and lobbing game which swept the Englishman from his feet and caught him time and again at the net.

Playing Cohet's style of game, Merlin used many of the ex-champ's customary shots more effectively than Cohet used them yesterday. Letting nothing pass, Merlin kept this sensational streak up to the fifth game of the second set, when Perry found his strokes and his courage and began the drive which took the cup to England.

PERRY STEADIES DOWN
With the luck of the youth behind him, Merlin ran to two set points in the tenth game, but Perry's racquet was becoming more and more trustworthy and the Briton ran out the set at 8-6 and moved into the third set with growing confidence and considerably more respect from the hilarious stands.

Merlin won his first service as he did in every set, but dropped three straight. He halted Perry's rally temporarily in the fifth game, but Perry wrung out three more for an easy 6-2 victory.

But Merlin declined to let the cup go as easily. He fought to the bitter end. To the tenth game of the last set wagers were being made freely that the youngster would come out on top. In the tenth game he stayed off match point and then lobbed to square at 5-5. The Englishman was annoyed, but put on steam and ran out at 7-5, breaking the Frenchman's service at love for 6-5 and then sliding out on his own service for the game that won set, match, series and cup.

FINDS OLD FORM
Cohet found his old form in streaks to beat Austin, but the veteran Frenchman still lacked the killing punch he once had. Time and again he prepared the way cannily, then failed to bring off the shot that should have earned the net.

Ten times he missed easy net shots. The battle opened softly, but developed into a smashing duel starting with the fifth game of the first set. This game was twice deuced before Cohet netted. The Frenchman dropped his service four times and Austin, leading 6-5, went on to take the set at 7-5.

In the second set Cohet speeded up and forced Bunny into many errors, but although he won the set, Frenchman's game still was weak. He frequently dropped his service after leading 30-0 or 40-0. The pair skidded along on fairly even terms through the next two sets and Austin gained a 4-3 lead in the fifth and seemed to have the match in hand. Then Cohet summoned all the reserve strength left in his body, won his own service in the seventh game and then staved off the imperturbable Englishman to win the next three games, set and match.

JOHNNY WENGER HIGH AT TRAPS

Wins Colonist and McGary Cup Events With Fine Total—Hasenfratz Winner

J. Wenger again showed his ability with the scattergun by winning two out of the three trophy shoots, held by members and friends of the Victoria Gun Club, at the Colwood traps at Sunday. Wenger won The Colonist shoot by smashing McGary shoot with another twenty-three.

H. Hasenfratz turned in the fine score of twenty-two to take the Dominion Trophy shoot. A large attendance took part in the preliminary practice squads of ten birds. Over 1,200 pigeons were trapped off during the morning.

Mottishaw, for Duncan, out-pitched Cann, and was clearly entitled to a shutout victory. He held the visitors to four hits and struck out eleven, hitting one batter and yielding three bases on balls. Duncan made four errors, and three of them were costly, being directly responsible for all the Sons' runs.

The second game was a poor exhibition. Halos started for Duncan and was hit hard. One run came in the first frame and six in the second, after which Weeks went to the mound and held the Sons scoreless for the rest of the game.

Shoulder pitched for the visitors and five runs were made off his delivery, but the early lead could not be overcome before the game was called on account of darkness at the end of the seventh.

Ed Evans umpired both games.

CALGARY AND TORONTO WIN CUP SOCCER

Former Defeats Prince Albert, 1-0, as Latter Trims Montreal, 4-1

WINNIPEG, July 31 (CP).—Prince Albert's veteran, Byers, at inside right, tonight whipped a sizzler past McKenzie, to give the almost-beaten City Reds a 1-0 win over Calgary C.P.R., and the right to meet Toronto Scottish in the Canadian soccer finals, which start here Thursday night.

Tonight's game was the deciding one of a three-game series for the Western Canada title. The C.P.R. took the first game, 4-3, last Thursday, and the Prince Albert Reds led it up with a 2-1 win Saturday night.

TORONTO SCOTTISH WIN

TORONTO, Ont., July 31 (CP).—Power that won them the North American soccer championship, tonight gave Toronto Scottish a 4-1 victory over Montreal's challengers for the Dominion title, the Canadian National Railways, and the right to travel to Winnipeg in defence of their Canadian crown.

Tonight's game, a sudden-death affair, was played before the largest crowd of the series, about 3,000 watching Scottish take a two-goal lead in the first half, then outscore the red-shirted railwaymen, 2-1, in the second half. The teams played a 1-1 tie in the first series game, and then battled to a 1-1 draw Saturday.

The Montrealers played the pretty short-passing game, but the long, swinging passes of Scottish proved more deadly.

Blood Billy McManus, Canadian-born left-winger, was the big goal-getter of the game and series. The well-built youngster counted three of Toronto's goals after the crafty Andy Stevens had netted the first.

Samson put Montreal on the score sheet with a header from Henry Lane's corner kick.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DEAD AND PULPLESS TEETH ALWAYS UNDER SUSPICION

You have a number of teeth from which the pulp (nerve and blood-vessels) has been removed, and these are known as dead teeth.

You naturally do not want to lose these teeth or have them extracted, because they are your own teeth and nothing your dentist can put in your mouth in their place will feel just as good or do as good work.

However, you read that many high authorities in the medical and dental professions believe that as all dead teeth are possible sources of infection and may cause rheumatism, heart, kidney, and blood vessel ailments, they should be removed.

What should you do about it?

Your best plan is to have an X-ray of your teeth by your dentist. After he has gone over the films and is able to assure you that there is no area of infection about the root, nor any changes in the jawbone into which the root is inserted, you may feel reasonably sure that these filled or dead teeth are doing very little damage to the system.

However, if you are feeling a little lazy, tire easily, always ready for sleep, a little more irritable than you know you should be, you should consult your family doctor and be thoroughly overhauled.

If, after going over you thoroughly and finding no organic condition in the body, and nothing in your habits of life to account for your symptoms, you would be wise to go back to your dentist, explain to him that in the opinion of your physician as there is nothing else he can find, he suspects the pulpless or dead teeth.

Dr. R. L. Haden, P. S. Rhoads, and G. F. Dick have made cultures of hundreds of dead teeth in which the X-ray films showed no root infection, and yet the harmful organisms were ten times more plentiful than in hundreds of live or vital teeth. In another series of hundreds of teeth in which the X-ray showed infection at the roots, the number of harmful organisms was about twelve times as many as in live or vital teeth.

Thus you can see that dead or pulpless teeth with no apparent root infection are almost as harmful to the system as those in which the X-ray shows infection at the root. Removal of these pulpless teeth in which the X-ray showed no infection of the roots resulted in improvement in practically all of their patients.

The advice then is to have your physician and dentist work together and determine what is really best in your particular case.

Now can anyone, even the prying eye of "How It Started" for the word "gas" was an invention, pure and simple. But more of that after a definition of the word as "an aeriform fluid having neither independent shape nor volume, but tending to expand indefinitely."

The word was coined by the chemist, Van Mennon, of Brussels, who died in 1644. His inspiration for it is supposed to have been from the Greek "chaos."

LEE TRACY STARS IN CAPITOL FILM

"The Nuisance" Is Expose of Amazing Legal "Rocket"—Maudie Evans Plays Lead

Lee Tracy's fast-talking comedy has a remarkable new medium in "The Nuisance," wherein he plays a debonair shyster lawyer, an ambulance-chasing charlatan who harries a street car company with damage suits on cleverly faked evidence and injuries, dodges the traps of the Bar association, and incidentally gives his audience an amazing inside on one of the legal rackets of the day.

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, now showing at the Capitol Theatre, blends laughs and heart throb, thrills and drama, with rapid-fire speed. Sensational accidents, clever skitishness in court, legal legerdemain, romance, and some remarkable character delineations are all in the picture.

Maudie Evans scores as the pretty detective, Frank Morgan gives an excellent characterization as the old quack doctor, and Charles Butler, worth is hilarious as the specialist "flopping" before autos to collect damages.

Also shown is "Gabriel Over the White House," starring Walter Houston.

DOMINION Famous stars of the screen, radio and sports world are assembled for Paramount's musical comedy hit, "College Humor," which is now showing at the Dominion Theatre. Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie and George Burns and Gracie Allen head the big cast. Mary Carlisle and Leonid Kinskey, Wampas stars, are also featured. Three new songs are introduced in the musical numbers, in which the famous Ox-Road Co-Ed Chorus appears. Wesley Ruggles directed.

COLUMBIA A new Maurice Chevalier—radio and screen—fireside romantic—makes his appearance in "A Bedtime Story," latest of the French star's pictures, which opened yesterday at the Columbia Theatre. Maurice is still gay and debonair—but he keeps his gaiety and his debonair manner near the heart in this picture, instead of putting it about the world, as he has in the past. "It's a King" is also shown, featuring Sidney Howard.

EMPIRE Mary Pickford used THEATRE several former outstanding personalities in "Secrets," her stage personality in "Secrets," now showing at the Empire Theatre. They include Ethel Clayton and Bessie Barriscale, who were rated among the most glamorous stars of the silent picture era, drawing weekly salaries running well into four figures; also Theodore von Eltz and Huntly Gordon, leading men who have enjoyed international popularity. Leslie Howard plays the leading male role.
